Zoo Babies: Stencils for a Nursery Penny Vedrenne 2008-03 Treat your little one to a fun and safe "walk on the wild side." With these stencils you can create a whimsical setting complete with elephant, giraffe, hippo, lion, monkey, tiger & zebra for a fun day at the Zoo. Decorate your entire nursery, from murals to one of a kind painted furniture, pillows to throws and even down to the lampshade. These stencils can complete the setting for your little adventurer. These are cut & paint stencils. Most cut & paint stencils are complete with only one stencil and leave you with a silhouette image. These designs each have more than one stencil (called overlays) and they leave you with a complete picture. My goal was to create a project that would be easy enough to complete in a minimal amount of time and yet leave you with an art piece only lacking of your individual touches. These stencils are designed to inspire your creativity!

Our directed drawing books are sold singly or in discounted group sets. As teachers with over 40 years of experience each, we have always believed that a hands-on, creative, and balanced approach to instruction is the most successful framework for developing skills in young children. As both parents and educators we know that involving children in the arts and providing children with ample opportunity to create while using a wide variety of media; provides a strong, research based foundation for academic development. We have enjoyed and practiced techniques we have learned from educational leaders such as Mona Brookes and Betty Edwards. However, with a movement in recent years to teach to standardized tests, many teachers have felt pressured to stop providing the opportunity to explore the arts. We know that research has shown time and time again, the importance of art in the educational process. Children who are exposed to music and art instruction do much better in reading, math, and science. They develop a greater curiosity about, understanding of, and appreciation for the subject matter being taught. We know that providing arts in education stimulates better behavior, personal esteem, and socialization skills. So why do so many educators discount it's importance and so many children stop drawing by second grade? The truth is that whole learning is a combination of current research, sound philosophy, and good teaching practice! For many years we have been teaching, presenting, and publishing materials that integrate music, art, movement, and literature across the curriculum. Even though we now have a wealth of quality materials and training available to us, as teachers we are always learning and modifying our educational practice and supplementing district adopted curriculum. The activities in this book are not intended to replace core instruction, but rather to enhance and extend the concepts taught within this practice. These patterns may be used as independent practice and are applicable to both school and home learning. We sincerely hope you will find these activities and patterns complimentary to your instructional program and that the children you teach will find joy and success in reading, writing, and drawing!
