Homer: Iliad Book XVIII Homer 2019-01-10 Book 18 of the Iliad is an outstanding example of the range and power of Homeric epic. It describes the reaction of the hero Achilles to the death of his closest friend, and his decision to re-enter the conflict even though it means he will lose his own life. The book also includes the forging of the marvellous shield for the hero by the smith-god Hephaestus: the images on the shield are described by the poet in detail, and this description forms the archetypal ecphrasis, influential on many later writers. In an extensive introduction, R. B. Rutherford discusses the themes, style and legacy of the book. The commentary provides line-by-line guidance for readers at all levels, addressing linguistic detail and larger questions of interpretation. A substantial appendix considers the relation between Iliad 18 and the Babylonian Epic of Gilgamesh, which has been prominent in much recent discussion.

Homer: Iliad Homer 2019-09-12 One of the most diverse books in the Iliad, Book III moves between intimate scenes in the heart of Troy and scenes serious and comic on the battlefield. It describes a major ritual in an elaborate oath-swearing, assigns a major role to divine intervention, introduces and characterises the main Trojan actors and reveals more about their Greek counterparts. The commentary discusses the styles of Homeric narrative, illustrating especially its economy and sophisticated handling of different time-scales. It situates the Iliad in its broad cultural and historical contexts, through consideration of the relationships between Greece and the Anatolian, Mesopotamian and ancient Indian cultures, particularly regarding shared story-patterns and ritual activity. An account is given of Troy's relationships with the Hittite empire and the vexed question of the historicity of the Trojan War. Also provided is a full historical account of Homeric language. The edition will be indispensable for students and instructors.

Excerpt: ...lost, 7 All pale they-wander on the Stygian coast, What sorrows then must their sad mother know, What anguish I! unutterable woe! Yet less that anguish, less to her, to me, Less to all Troy, if not depriv'd of thee. 75 Yet shun Achilles! enter yet the wall; And spare thyself, thy father, spare us all! Save thy dear life: or if a soul so brave Neglect that thought, thy dearer glory save. Pity, while yet I live, these silver hairs; 80 While yet thy father feels the woes he bears, Yet curs'd with sense! a wretch, whom in his rage (All trembling on the verge of helpless age) Great Jove has plac'd, sad spectacle of pain! The bitter dregs of fortune's cup to drain: 85 To fill with scenes of death his closing eyes, And number all his days by miseries! My heroes slain, my bridal bed o'erturn'd, My daughters ravish'd, and my city burn'd, My bleeding infants dash'd against the floor; 90 These I have yet to see, perhaps yet more 1 Perhaps ev'n I, reserv'd by angry fate The last sad relic of my ruin'd state (Dire pomp of sov'reign wretchedness!), must fall And stain the pavement of my regal hall; 95 Where famish'd dogs, late guardians of my door, Shall lick their mangled master's spatter'd gore. Yet for my sons I thank ye, gods! 't was well: Well have they perish'd, for in fight they fell. Who dies in youth and vigour, dies the best, 'o Struck thro' with wounds, all honest on the breast. But when the fates, in fulness of their rage, Spurn the hoar head of unresisting age, In dust the rev'rend lineaments deform, And pour to dogs the life-blood scarcely warm; 105 This, this is misery! the last, the worst, That man can feel: man, fated to be curs'd! Homer's Iliad Edward Bull Clapp 2016-06-22 Excerpt from Homer's Iliad: Books XIX-XXIV This edition of Books xix.-xxiv. of the Iliad follows the same general plan as the other volumes of the series to which it belongs. According to this plan the readings of the Dindorf-Hentze edition, Leipzig, 1884, have been adopted throughout, with a few unimportant changes in punctuation. The commentary is based upon that of the Ameis-Hentze (third) edition, Leipzig, 1896. Little has been omitted except the occasional critical notes, which have been transferred to the Appendix. It seems undesirable to confuse the learner with conflicting views, and the earnest student will soon discover that many interesting questions are treated in the Appendix alone. The commentary has been much enlarged by additions from various sources, especially from the editions of Faesi-Franke, La Roche, and Leaf, and from the editor's own collections. The parallel passages from Homer have been quoted in full, and many illustrative citations have been added, chiefly from Vergil, but also from other writers, including a considerable number from the Old Testament. To the Critical Notes on each book is prefixed a brief Critical Introduction, containing a summary of some of the more important phases of the higher criticism.
