Restless Enterprise Katherine Manthorne 2020-12-15 Eliza Pratt Greatorex (1819-1897) was America's most famous woman artist in the mid-nineteenth century, but today she is all but forgotten. Beginning with her Irish roots, this biography brings her art and life back into focus. Breaking conventions for female artists at that time, Greatorex specialized in landscapes and streetscapes, traveling from the Hudson River to the Colorado Rockies and across Europe and North Africa. Her crowning achievement, a monumental tome of drawings and narratives titled Old New York, awakened the public to the destruction of the city's architectural heritage during the post-Civil War era. Exploring Greatorex's fierce ambition and creative path, Katherine Manthorne reveals how her success at forging an independent career in a male-dominated world shaped American gender politics, visual culture, and urban consciousness.

Oberammergau in the Nazi Era Helena Waddy 2010-05-12 In her study of Oberammergau, the Bavarian village famous for its decennial passion play, Helena Waddy argues against the traditional image of the village as a Nazi stronghold. She uses Oberammergau's unique history to explain why and how genuinely some villagers chose to become Nazis, while others rejected Party membership and defended their Catholic lifestyle. She explores the reasons for which both local Nazis and their opponents fought to protect the village's cherished identity against the Third Reich's many intrusive demands. She also shows that the play mirrored the Gospel-based anti-Semitism endemic to Western culture.

The Homes of Ober-Ammergau Eliza

Greatorex 1872 "The 20 collotypes are from Greatorex's drawings. This appears to be one of Joseph Albert's first publications under his own name and odd also that it is an English language and copyrighted publication. Albert later republished 19 of the drawings in an Oberammergau album. Did she meet him during her stay in Oberammergau and did she see his early collotype work? She notes in this book on page 31 that Albert came to Oberammergau to photograph the Passion Play while she was there. He sold the license to do Albertype in the US to Edward Bierstadt in 1869. Also their choice of use of the word 'Heliotype' is curious. The term for collotype was fluid at this point but his particular term used in an American publication is odd given that the Ernest Edwards patent used that term for his method." -- Fred Pajersky documentation.

Opportunity at Oberammergau William Arthur Millen 1971

Recompense Arnie Zimbelman 2000-08-22 Based on actual historical events that took place in 17th Century Europe, Recompense presents a fictional portrayal of how the devastating bubonic plague, the "Black Death," disrupted the everyday lives of inhabitants in the small Alpine village of Oberammergau, Germany. The response of the villagers was to institute their renowned Passion Play, still faithfully re-enacted every ten years as an expression of gratitude for cessation of the deadly malady. Brandon St. Clair, a young San Francisco attorney, has joined a tour group traveling to attend a present-day performance of the Passion Play. What he cannot foresee or explain is his mystical mental "return" to Old Oberammergau, where he observes himself as a young boy caught up in the cataclysmic events of the time. Equally inexplicable is the fact that several members of his tour group also appear to have "counter-parts" in the mountain hamlet. The catastrophe of the plague is echoed in near disaster for the tour group on their return flight home. Captain Kaspar Schisler's response to this crisis serves as recompense for the calamity he helped bring about in the past.

Oberammergau and Its Passion Play 1950 1950

The Oberammergau Passion Play Kevin J. Wetmore, Jr. 2017-02-01 Every ten years since 1634, the Bavarian village of Oberammergau has performed the world's most famous Passion Play, recounting the last days of Jesus Christ. In 2010, presenting the play for the 41st time, the village broke with tradition to offer a new interpretation for a post-millennial, international audience.

Drawing on interviews with villagers and international responses, this collection of new essays provides an analysis of the play by scholars who attended. Topics include changes in response to charges of anti-Semitism, how the play defines the village, how the performance changes the audience, and a comparison of Oberammergau 2010 with American Passion Plays, Indian pilgrimage drama and other German Passion Plays.

Women Rewriting Boundaries Precious McKenzie Stearns 2016-12-14 Women Rewriting Boundaries expands the work of gender and literary scholars by offering fresh insights on how to read travel writing by women. It analyzes the connections between class, gender, physicality, and sexuality as found in nineteenth-century literature. The authors discuss the myriad ways in which women writers reinforced and challenged Victorian social norms. Inspired by a special topics panel, "Women Writing Boundaries," presented at the 2013 Rocky Mountain Modern Language Association's annual convention, this edited collection will be a thought-provoking resource for college-level humanities and gender studies students and their instructors.

Lessons from Mama Joan Walker Page 2021-11-30 It's been said that values are caught more than taught. When Polly Shivers was diagnosed with cancer in 2006, she quietly maintained, "Well, we're supposed to bloom where we are planted." Mama's words matched her actions. She knew that her six children would repeat what she did more than what she said. An orphan, adopted into her forever family as a toddler, Mama's life permeated gratefulness. Mama knew what loneliness felt like, and she invested in the lives of others, reaping great benefits. Snapshots of twelve of the many lessons learned from my Mama are encapsulated here, along with journal entries from both Mama and the author, Joan Walker Page, number five. Be inspired as you read the priceless pieces of this family's life, lovingly put together.

Oberammergau James Shapiro 2007-12-18 The Bavarian village of Oberammergau has staged the trial, crucifixion, and resurrection of Christ nearly every decade since 1634. Each production of the Passion Play attracts hundreds of thousands, many drawn by the spiritual benefits it promises. Yet Hitler called it a convincing portrayal of the menace of Jewry, and in 1970 a group of international luminaries boycotted the play for its anti-Semitism. As the production for the year 2000 drew near, James Shapiro was there to document the newest wave of obstacles that faced the determined Bavarian villagers. Erudite and judicious, Oberammergau is a fascinating and important look at the unpredictable and sometimes tragic relationship between art and society, belief and tolerance, religion and politics.

Oberammergau and Its Passion Play ... Frau Hermine (von Hillern) Diemer 1910

The Black Chicago Renaissance Darlene Clark Hine 2012-06-15 Beginning in the 1930s, Black Chicago experienced a cultural renaissance that lasted into the 1950s and rivaled the cultural outpouring in the Harlem Renaissance of the 1920s. The contributors to this volume analyze this prolific period of African American creativity in music, performance art, social science scholarship, and visual and literary artistic expression. Unlike Harlem, Chicago was an urban industrial center that gave a unique working class and internationalist perspective to the cultural work being done in Chicago. This collection's various essays discuss the forces that distinguished the Black Chicago Renaissance from the Harlem Renaissance and placed the development of black culture in a national and international context. Among the topics discussed in this volume are Chicago writers Gwendolyn Brooks and Richard Wright, The Chicago Defender and Tivoli Theater, African American music and visual arts, and the American Negro Exposition of 1940.

Contributors are Hilary Mac Austin, David T. Bailey, Murry N. DePillars, Samuel A. Floyd Jr., Erik S. Gellman, Jeffrey Helgeson, Darlene Clark Hine, John McCluskey Jr., Christopher Robert Reed, Elizabeth Schlabach, and Clovis E. Semmes.

Oberammergau Annette von Altenbockum 2010 The once-a-decade performance of The Passion Play is a great reason to visit the town of Oberammergau and this appealing guide to the town, its history, and traditions shows why visitors come for the play and then stay for the culture. It is filled with stories and photographs of local inhabitants and their remarkable woodcarvings, intricately painted frescoes, and lovely forested mountains. The text features up to date tourist information as well as fascinating local history, including the story of how the Plague inspired the town's first Passion Play performance. Celebrating every facet of a unique and popular destination, this book is an ideal souvenir for anyone who has visited Oberammergau, and a superior reference guide for those wishing to travel to this remarkable part of the world. AUTHOR: Annette von Altenbockum is the author of many children's and adult books. ILLUSTRATIONS 200 illustrations *

The Homes of Oberammergau Eliza Greatorax 2000 Originally published in 1872, this work is based on the author's experiences in the town of Oberammergau, Germany, the site of the world famous Passion Play. Greatorax, a famous illustrator of the period, recounts her three-month stay during which time she illustrated twenty of the town's famous homes, which are an essential part of the work. Mork, a distinguished Passion Play scholar, not only places the book into an historical context, but describes the play as it was performed during that time.
